THE GRAPEVINE SUMMER 2021 EDITION 347

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As we look forward to the new seasons and challenges ahead, we are seriously in need of more volunteers to help us with the many tasks we must address while also preserving our affordable maintenance fees. We do want to report that the county has come out to inspect the drainage problems on the central and northern ends of Via Vesta, but it may take some time to rectify. In the meantime, we critically need homeowners to help us right now—particularly people with the creative energy, skills and knowledge to introduce practical solutions, acquire bids from companies and contractors, and perhaps offer expert advice in the areas of electrical, plumbing and/or building.

We love our community and have done our very best to keep it attractive, safe and in good working order, but it was built over 40 years ago and there are many areas where changes and updates demand our attention now—before they become problems and potential liabilities.

It is for this reason that we ask you to step up and participate. This is your community and we are in great need of your input and help in achieving our goals and keeping our plat up to date, up to code and up to the standards we all expect and deserve.

So please, contact me and let me know how you can contribute to our critical tasks. We have never needed you more than we do right now!

George Kuhn
President

POOL NEWS

We've accomplished a lot at the pool in the last couple of months, mostly with volunteer help. I am looking for a few able-bodied Plat 2 volunteers willing to tackle power washing the pool parking lot and then repainting. This will include parking bumpers (repairing one) and the white lines leading to the walkway pavers. Anyone willing to work on this project can contact me at (561) 809-6204. Hoping to get this done before the summer.

At this time, we are still following the rule restricting pool use only to residents and their visiting relatives. No friends may come in. When we can change this rule, I will be sure to notify all residents. Until then, please follow our rule regarding visitors.

Sharon McCloskey

EDITOR'S NOTE

After this final issue of the season, I will be stepping down as Editor of the Grapevine. For 7 years it has been a privilege and a challenge, but there comes a time when someone else should have the opportunity to bring creative ideas to refresh our newsletter. I know there is a lot of untapped talent out there; we just need to access it! Our next issue will not come out until the fall, so you'll have ample time to come up with your own imaginative plans. You're welcome to contact me for further information concerning the writing, editing and art directing aspects involved: (561) 638-3114.

Lisa Weingarten is also leaving her position on The Grapevine. We are looking for someone to prepare the digital format for the printer. She has added a great deal of technical savvy and significantly updated the way the Grapevine is produced. Please feel free to contact her for more information about the production and the business end involved in her pivotal role, email dvplat2@gmail.com.

TO YOUR HEALTH

Wendy Karger

A small gesture with a big impact

This past year, Covid took away a lot of the things we didn't even realize were so vital to our physical and emotional health. One of the most meaningful activities starts at birth, with the primary relationship between a newborn and its mother. It's the hug.

How we've missed embracing our friends, family and each other. This poignant loss brought to mind one of the first studies I'd ever read that made a lasting impression on me. It was an experiment using baby rhesus monkeys done in 1959 at the University of Wisconsin and written by Harry F. Harlow, PhD, who later became President of the American Psychological Association.

Cloth and Wire Mother Surrogates were used to test the preferences of infant monkeys. The infants spent most of their time clinging to the soft cloth "mother" (foreground) even when nursing bottles were attached to the wire mother (background).

The study measured the significance of the baby monkeys' reactions to a substitute "cloth mother" versus a "wire mother." Each inanimate mother provided the same amount of milk, but the infants spent more and more time with the cloth monkey than feeding required, contradicting the idea that affection was a response derived entirely in association with the reduction of hunger.

In the next phase of the experiment, the infants' emotional attachment to the inanimate mothers was tested in response to emotional stress when they were exposed to strange objects, among which was a mechanical teddy bear which moved forward beating a drum. Whether the infants had nursed from the cloth mother or the wire one, they all clung to the cloth mother to assuage their fears. And if the cloth mother was taken away, the infants would throw themselves face down, clutching their heads and bodies and screaming in distress.

Needless to say, we have not been engaging in such dramatic behavior to express our own anguish. But the significant rise in mental health disturbances is a clear indication of how our inability to be physically close to each other for fear of spreading the virus has affected us.

Thankfully, now that the restrictions are lifting and we can once again resume close physical contact, it has become evident just how critical the simple hug can be to our own health and sense of well being. If we didn't realize that before, we certainly do now.

ARB News

I want to thank all of you for keeping our community looking good.
• Our sidewalks and aprons were power washed and I think they came out looking great. It certainly brightens up our community. Please sweep out your aprons when the water evaporates.
• All home inspections should be complete by the end of April. All inspections are done by at least 2 people. If you have a question about the letter you have received please call the person who wrote the letter (it should have a * next to the name); they have a copy of your letter and can refer back to it. If you have received a violation please address it as soon as possible.
• Inspections will be done twice a year- April and October. Follow up inspections are done on the homes that received violations.
• ARB forms can be obtained from our website delrayvillasplat2.com or from the pool house. Please submit a form for any exterior work-painting, landscape, roofs, additions.

Again, thank you for keeping our community a place where we can be proud to live.
Linda Downs, Steve Lutsk, Theodora Karvounis, Elizabeth Rhyne
