

Greetings From The President

I am glad to say that our transition to Hotwire is complete and has been quite successful. The customer satisfaction surveys that were completed by our neighbors show that most of us are very happy with the new service. It is noteworthy that when issues with service have come up, Hotwire has responded quickly and sent out service people. Our new service manager is Luckhe Watson. He can be reached at 800 355-5668.

And Now a Word on Iguanas! Many of us have noticed the exploding iguana population in Plat 2. The Board has voted and chosen a company to carry out iguana population control. You will be updated on dates that this will take place.

Here are a few facts about Iguanas

They are an invasive species, not native to our area, and they have no natural predators. That leads to a rapid increase in population. Females lay up to 75 eggs once or even twice a year! The Alpha males--the large ones--mate with at least 20 females. Now for the bad part. They burrow to make their nests. Burrows can be under cement patios, under roofs to get into an attic, in our lawns, or in the shoreline of the lakes that we recently spent a lot of money on to restore. They eat our foliage, and they spread salmonella!

Thanks.....

I want to congratulate the members of our community for complying with our parking rules. That is, 2 side tires on the swale and 2 tires on the street. You may also park across the driveway apron. Overnight street parking is prohibited. These rules are not only for your safety but also for the protection of our sprinkler and drainage systems. Since the reminder letters were sent, adherence to the parking rules has dramatically improved.

To all of our neighbors, have a safe and enjoyable summer whether you are traveling or staying at home!

News From Your ARB

Our community is looking very good. There are a number of new roofs, with a few more scheduled. New windows have been installed. A few trees have been planted and many garden beds look beautiful with their spring colors. Our community may be 45 years old but there's nothing like a face lift to look young again. The next inspections start in June.

Pool News

We had a wonderful pool party with over 50 neighbors, and music by Slappy & band. Kudos to Jory who served as Grill Master, and Arleen who treated us to ices. Thank you to everyone who brought food to share, and the volunteers who cleaned, set up, and packed away. Of course, the biggest thanks goes to Sharon McCloskey who's hard work and devotion makes our parties a special event.

We now have a new pool motor that should keep things running smoothly and I am happy to say that we now have attractive new life preserver rings for your safety!

DUCK, DUCK, GOOSE

with Holly Krahe

Part Three: Muscovy Ducks

Unlike Black-bellied Whistling Ducks and Mottled Ducks, Muscovy Ducks are considered invasive, originating in Central and South America. In fact, if one is injured or sick, the rehabilitation facilities will usually refuse to treat them. They cannot legally be released anywhere without a special permit.

They were domesticated and bred for their meat, feathers, and eggs. Illegally released for ornamental purposes or as pets, feral Muscovy populations now occur in high densities across Florida.

Because they have been selectively bred, these ducks have large variations in plumage, but most show bright red fleshy protuberances on their face and neck. They seem to waddle and also vigorously wag their tails.

Unlike most other ducks, the homely Muscovy can become aggressive when fed. They will follow people and hang out on porches, hoping for a handout. A word to the wise!

Stay tuned. More on ducks coming this fall!

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BOLD

Celebrate With A Handmade Red, White, And Blue Wreath On Your Door!

Here's what you'll need:

- A 10" heavy cardboard or thin wooden wreath frame available at craft stores or on Michaels.com or Amazon.com
- A ball each of red, white, and blue yarn
- Scissors and a yarn needle
- A ruler and pencil
- One red, white, or blue pipe cleaner
- For the stars, choose either small white pom poms, small white buttons, or small star shaped buttons
- Craft glue

First, map and clearly mark your wreath to show where the red, white, and blue yarns will go. The upper left hand corner will be your blue area. The rest will be divided into 13 red and white stripes, 7 red, and 6 white, starting and ending with a red one. If the stripes are not exactly the same size, it doesn't matter. It's a handicraft, not a math assignment!

Next, put your red yarn behind the frame, leaving a generous tail, and bring the ball of yarn through the center of the wreath. Now, firmly pull the ball up and over the top, creating a tight loop. Repeat until you've filled your first stripe. Then cut and secure both tails of yarn into the few nearest threads in back. Use a dab of glue to secure them in place. Do the same with the remaining stripes.

For your 13 stars you can use pom poms, buttons, or star shapes. Then put your pipe cleaner through the hole at the top between the blue and first red section to make your hanger loop.

Enjoy your unique creation!

The Residential Electrical System and The Duplex Receptacle

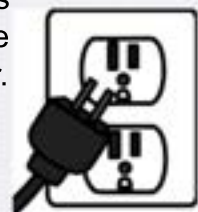

The electrical definition of a device is a unit of an electrical system, other than a conductor, that carries or controls electrical energy as its principal function. Switches and receptacles are the principal electrical devices found in residential units.

Before we get into The description, function and typical wiring of receptacles, it is important to understand your electrical system. Residential electrical systems consist of "branch" circuits that conduct electrons from the supply of power (voltage source) through conductors to the load (electrical apparatus, i.e. toaster) and return to the source. Electrons are contained in this circuit by insulation of conductors and equipment. This is a 2 wire system (supply and return) or in electrical terms, hot and neutral.

Electrical systems have been "grounded" since the early days of electrical installations. The neutral or return of the electrical system is connected directly to earth ground. This grounding has several advantages including to dissipate lightning surges on the electrical system, to supply a reference point for electrical measurements, and to give a path for fault currents to return to the source and trip protective devices (circuit breakers). Any time electrons are allowed to escape from the insulated circuit a fault current can be created. All non-insulated metal portions of electrical circuits are grounded.

Grounding has created a third conductor in the electrical circuit. These conductors are identified by the color of their insulation. Since ground wires do not normally conduct electrons, they can be bare or may have a green color insulation. Neutral wires are always white or gray. The hot conducts (voltage source) are black, red, blue, orange, etc. There are various types of electrical cabling used in residential units. The most common found in your home is Romex wire which contains a bare ground wire and insulated conducts enclosed in a plastic outer covering. The most common Romex wire has a bare ground conductor, a black insulated conductor and a white insulated conductor.

My son kept chewing on electrical cords, so I grounded him...
He's currently doing better and conducting himself properly!

Now we can discuss the most common receptacle found in your home. It is called a duplex receptacle since it has two places where electrical equipment can be plugged in. The receptacle allows electrical power to be supplied to your electrical apparatus. Basically, it allows the extension of the hot and neutral wiring in your home. The duplex receptacle has three openings--the neutral side (long slot), the hot side (short slot), and the ground opening (horseshoe shaped).

The ground wire in the outlet box (bare or green) goes to the green screw on the duplex receptacle. The two silver screws on the left side of the picture are connected to the white wires. The two gold screws on the right side of the picture are connected to the black wires. This will properly polarize the receptacle to accommodate polarized equipment plugs that align with the long and short slots on the receptacle.

Electrical branch circuits supplied from individual circuit breakers usually supply multiple receptacles. The Romex wiring is extended between outlet boxes to form this branch circuit.

Stay tuned for the next article that will cover additional receptacles and switches!

EVEN A SMALL AMOUNT OF WALKING
AFTER A MEAL IS SUPRISINGLY GOOD FOR YOU!

We are probably all aware of the health benefits derived from walking. Numerous scientific articles have been published discussing the relationship between walking, stress reduction, and overall cardiac health. Walking lowers many factors that contribute to cardiovascular disease such as high blood pressure and high fat levels in the blood. However, questions remain. How far do I walk? What is the total time necessary to show a benefit? How fast should I walk?

Recent studies have looked at how short walks following a meal are of benefit. How does this work? Following a meal your blood sugar tends to rise and your pancreas releases insulin to help control the change in blood sugar levels. In people with diabetes, this may lead to elevations in blood sugar which can contribute to heart attack and stroke. Remember, your muscles require sugar, referred to as glucose, as well as oxygen, and other nutrients to function properly.

So, the goal should be to maintain even levels of blood sugar throughout the day. Research shows that anywhere from two to five minutes of brisk or even light intensity walking following a meal is helpful in maintaining even levels of blood sugar. Walking 60 to 90 minutes after eating delivers the best results, but even two minutes has a positive impact.

In conclusion, plan your meals to balance carbohydrates, proteins, and fats properly. Avoid simple sugars like soft drinks and fruit juices that would quickly raise your blood sugar. Moving even a little bit is worthwhile. That can include housework after eating, a walk of any duration, and mini walks throughout the day when there's not time for something longer. Enjoy your walk!
